Monday 16th October

Today we will leave Paris and head to Lyon. Hotel check-out and transfer to the train station, where we will take the High-speed train to the gastronomy capital of Lyon.
Rest of the day at leisure and night in Lyon.

Tuesday 17th October

We will enjoy a half-day tour of some of Lyon's best sites with a local guide to see Old Lyon, a cobblestoned crossroads between tourist hotspot and local hangout! Old Lyon has UNESCO status and lots of bars where locals hang out, along with plenty of shops and art galleries. As you wander the neighbourhood, you'll get to see Lyon's famous one-of-a-kind Traboules: passageways that were used by both city-dwellers over 1,500 years ago and the French Resistance during World War II, and many in between. They're difficult to navigate alone, but our guides know the way! Then take in some greenery and some of the best views of the city on Fourvière Hill, the grounds of the spectacular Fourvière basilica and the idyllic Rosary Garden.

Next up on the agenda is lunch in a bouchon, a restaurant that is native to Lyon and contributed to its patrimony as the gastronomy capital of the world! Night in Lyon.

Wednesday 18th October

Gourmet rally in the very famous Halles de Lyon-Paul Bocuse today! As far as covered markets go, France has the bases... Well, covered! Among the country's countless covered markets, Les Halles de Lyon stand out. With over sixty restaurants and specialty shops inside, this is a foodie's dream come true. During your visit to this gastronomy landmark, you will have ample opportunity to try several of the market's flavours, and you will also get to learn about the market's history and hear stories from your tour guide, who will be accompanying you in your quest for deliciousness. Rest of the day at leisure and night in Lyon.

Thursday 19th October
